

Family History 101: For True Beginners

Interested in learning more about your family tree, but not sure how to get started?

Join us

October 20th, 2018

From 10am - noon

at the

Donaldson-Bannister Farm

as part of the Dunwoody Preservation Trust's History Alive! Events

Appropriate for beginners, ages 12 - 112!

Local Family History Researcher, Gin Shaw will present a basic overview of starting your family tree, how to begin the research, how to gather historical "proof", major sources of historical documents, and some other tidbits of information, including DNA testing.

Virginia A. "Gin" Shaw has been conducting family history research for nearly 25 years. A former teacher and Elementary School Administrator, she works as a family archivist, helping clients research and combine their family history with their heirlooms and stories into hardcover books.

This event is free, but registration is required through Libba@dunwoodypt.org
